Objectives

Upon successful completion of this course, participants will:

- Be equipped to effectively deliver the standard SSAFE modules using adult learning techniques;
- Form part of a pool of UN SSAFE trainers who are responsible for training UN staff and associated personnel in their countries and/or duty stations.

Course Contents

The SSAFE Training of Trainers uses the standard SSAFE modules in order to train participants on how to best deliver them in their field locations.

Participants are exposed to adult learning styles; the building block methodology that underpins the SSAFE training; Gagne's Nine Events of Instruction; facilitation and presentation skills; techniques for managing challenging participants and other training design and delivery techniques relevant for SSAFE trainings.

Participants are also provided with the resources and role players required to design and run vignettes and scenarios which relate directly to standard SSAFE modules.

Certification occurs upon satisfactory conduct of at least one SSAFE course back in the duty station within 12 months of the Training of Trainers.

Course Methodology

The course uses adult learning methodologies and is highly interactive and participatory, building on experience from participants. A mixture of plenary sessions, group exercises, and presentations are interlinked throughout the five days. A field day where realistic scenarios and simulations are conducted in cooperation with the Taurinense Alpini Brigade (Italian Army) completes the programme.

Target Audience

International and National Security Professionals from the UN System and affiliated organisations

Cost of participation

The course fee of 3,000 USD covers the 5-day residential course (including participation in the field day) and lodging and meals during the course period. Participants are responsible for their own travel and transfers.
