

Webinar: Planning and managing security training

#Safety & Security #online #Up to 1 week #Virtual Campus

Introduction

UNDSS in cooperation with UNSSC will be hosting one webinar to discuss the importance of planning and management of security training in order to reach the target audience and ensure sustainability. The webinar will help guide you through the process of determining why a security training is being delivered or attended; who the target audience is; what the training standard is; how to identify the resources required to deliver; and where to locate planning and support tools available to you. The webinar is designed to support and illustrate how local security training planning and headquarters training planning processes work together.
