Learning and Innovation for a Sustainable Future

Programme Portfolio 2023

Enrolling in courses offered by the United Nations System Staff College (UNSSC) is a strategic step forward in your career development and will help you become a more effective professional. Enrolling your staff will help them perform better, adapt to change, and align with your organizational objectives.

The Staff College is a trusted provider of cutting-edge learning opportunities. Our broad portfolio of learning experiences embraces innovation and gives you the tools to make smarter decisions leading to better results.

Courses are offered in a variety of formats.

- For people: The Staff College offers programmes that meet you where you are in your career, supporting you in the direction you want to grow. From online courses to in-person learning experiences – and the best of both – make the Staff College a part of your professional evolution. We equip individuals, projects and organizations with the skills they need to thrive.
- For organizations: Develop your staff. Work with our teams to develop customizable courses held in the format that works for you, including in-person, online and blended programmes. Make the Staff College a complement to your professional development strategy.

Alumni of our courses join a global network of experienced practitioners working to achieve the Sustainable Development Goals.

Transforming learning for a better future

Secretary-General António Guterres has encouraged UN staff to “be revolutionary, to be bold, and embrace innovation to meet the challenges of our times.”

To help UN staff reach that goal the Staff College continues to invest in novel learning design methods, staff training programmes and technologies. Individuals who choose to learn at the UN Staff College are among the most accomplished professionals. They come from around the world to be taught by some of the finest experts anywhere. They see the Staff College as an experience that balances teaching and discovery.

Please visit our website www.unssc.org/courses to view our latest programmes and register.

Leading and sustaining a culture of innovation

In line with the priorities outlined in the Secretary General's Our Common Agenda report, our goal is to help you refresh your skills so you can capitalize on new opportunities to lead change and support the sustainable development goals.

What makes the Staff College different is that our courses draw from a global network of experienced experts to offer a range of learning solutions. Learning experiences are designed to equip participants with the tools and capabilities to collaborate across divided opinions, look at problems from new angles, to lean into uncertainty and to succeed.

A gateway to high-value, high-impact learning solutions

The UNSSC learning experience

12 UNSSC holds a unique position as the interagency learning institution of the United Nations. Since 2002 we have been pioneering the delivery of learning and training.

Our in-person, online, and blended learning offerings have helped thousands of UN staff develop new skills and grow into new roles. Beyond the UN, we are recognized as a learning hub for UN-endorsed curricula, valued by professionals throughout governments, non-governmental organizations, the private sector, civil society and academic institutions.

Unleashing your potential

The Staff College uses a unique artificial intelligence algorithm to understand and cater to the learning needs of course participants. Our state-of-the-art learning platforms allow participants to personalize their learning experiences.

We work hard to deliver best-in-class experiences, carefully designing each learning resource, tool, session, and programme content to support your learning journey. Our approaches will help you develop your skills and grow—within or beyond your current role.

Fostering a culture of innovation through tailored learning and development solutions

Over the past 20 years, UNSSC has collaborated with UN entities, NGOs, civil society organizations, governments and the private sector to untap organizational potential and foster innovation.

Whether your organization is cultivating leaders and managers, supporting peace and security professionals to enhance their ability to implement mandates more effectively, or empowering sustainable development actors, we create a space where learning catalyzes innovation. Our unique and collaborative approach to solution scoping helps organizations unleash their people's potential, embrace change, and improve overall performance. Our courses – digital platforms, in-person, or some combination of both – bring years of professional UN and global affairs experience to our partners.

In 2023 and beyond, forward-looking organizations will continue to upskill their personnel to create thriving and innovative cultures. To help your organization stay ahead of the curve, we have listed some of our most popular tailored learning solutions.

Our solutions create exciting and thoughtful learning spaces where your workforce can engage and collaborate. Get in touch with us at info@unssc.org to discover how UNSSC solutions can be tailored your organization's specific requirements, learning outcomes, and budgetary needs — regardless of the cohort size and location.

Academic Partnerships

The world today is driven by innovation and knowledge sharing. Partnerships are important mechanisms for exchanging experiences and ideas. This creates an enormous opportunity for UNSSC to spur change through results-based alliances with leading academic institutions. Our approach centres on advancing knowledge that delivers on the learning and development goals of partners. We apply the resources, research findings and system-wide knowledge from the UN on sustainable development, leadership and management and peace and security to create immersive learning experiences that unleash opportunities.

UNSSC and IE University

UNSSC and the IE School of Global and Public Affairs have partnered to deliver two new degree programmes, a Masters in International Development and Bachelor in International Relations. These programmes are aimed at individuals wanting to tackle the complex challenges associated with the 2030 Agenda. In 2023 both institutions will combine again to launch an Executive Masters in International Development.

UNSSC and the University of Cape-Town

In 2022 the UNSSC and The University of Cape Town's (UCT) Nelson Mandela School of Public Governance signed a Memorandum of Understanding to leverage each other's strengths to work collaboratively in selected areas of research, pedagogy, dialogue, research forums, and the sharing of facilities and other resources. Some planned joint activities include knowledge and information sharing to enhance capacities and developing collaborative executive education and academic courses in areas of common interest. This collaboration will also include the development of joint publications and joint human capital development initiatives.

More information about our academic partnerships are available here.

We place great value on the relationships we have with partners. Whether you seek to co-produce knowledge or add depth to your university's curriculum, UNSCC offers numerous ways to forge advantageous relationships.

02 January 2023 -
31 December 2023

$35000

In response to the call by UN Secretary-General António Guterres to reposition the UN development system to deliver on the 2030 Agenda and to work towards "a new generation of Country Teams that are tailored to the specific needs of each country", the UNSSC Knowledge Centre for Sustainable Development is organizing executive courses on leadership skills for UN Country Teams.

The UNCT Dream Team Leadership Training provides an opportunity for UN Country Teams (UNCT) to engage in strengthened dialogues, collaborative learning and peer exchanges. This leadership training provides an open and safe space to unpack leadership challenges and opportunities for the UNCT to advance collective change towards new sustainable development partnerships, and to be an incubator for innovative ideas and joint leadership pilots.

This allows the UNCT to be more effective in its engagement with stakeholders across government, civil society, academia, the private sector and the UN system. UN leaders will gain greater insights into delivering impacts in support of national priorities that are larger than the sum of their parts.

There is a growing recognition that young people can play a meaningful role in preventing and resolving conflict and building sustainable peace. Young people have the undeniable right to participate in the maintenance of peace and security. From political, electoral or peace processes, to informal participation at the community level and in digital spaces. Young people's meaningful participation and influence improves the relevance, effectiveness and impact of peace and security initiatives, policies and decisions. This online course developed jointly by UNSSC and the Folke Bernadotte Academy (FBA) is a self-paced and blended with six live sessions. It provides practitioners with the skills and knowledge to effectively implement the youth, peace and security agenda while working with and for young people in peace and security. The course will run from 11 April to 5 May, 2023 (Part I; YPS foundational Skills) and from 18 September to 13 October 2023 (Part II; YPS Applied Skills)

Target: Practitioners and representatives from the UN system, international and regional security organizations, non-governmental organizations and civil society working with the Youth, Peace and Security Agenda.

04 Leadership and Management

The United Nations System Leadership Framework notes, “The challenges that confront us in the twenty-first century will not be met by mere deference to power, reliance on a shaky status quo or operation in old silos. Rather, they demand a norm-based, principled, inclusive, accountable, multi-dimensional, transformational, collaborative and self-applied leadership model.”

Our leadership and management offerings are designed to equip participants with cutting-edge skills to deliver exceptional results for transformative processes at country, regional and global levels.

Tailored Learning Offerings

Dialogue Series for DSRSGs

The Dialogue Series is an annual forum where Deputy Special Representatives of the Secretary-General can debate and raise questions among peers in a moderated, safe space. Participants come equipped to share examples from their mission areas; analyze developments and strategies, and examine thematic issues or policies impacting the advancement or implementation of their mission mandates.

Women, Peace and Security

Violent conflict disproportionately affects women and girls and intensifies preexisting gender inequalities and discrimination. Acknowledging and integrating different understandings, experiences and capabilities of women throughout the UN is essential for sustaining peace.

Women, Peace and Security (WPS) is part of a rich range of training opportunities on offer from the Peace & Security Hub. This portfolio caters to providing participants with the knowledge and skills to integrate the WPS Agenda and gender equality into strategic planning, programming, and budgeting processes.

Community Engagement

Building upon global guidelines, this learning experience explores key elements of Community Engagement within the Peacebuilding and Sustaining Peace frameworks. As practitioners engaged in international operational contexts, our work needs to be inclusive of local participation. Fostering community engagement is one way of ensuring this.

Participants in our Community Engagement learning opportunities are encouraged to reflect upon and suggest ways to move away from top-down and instead to bottom-up approaches. Through these experiences, participants will look at ways to facilitate deeper understandings of local contexts through respectful, coherent, and flexible engagement and the inclusive and meaningful participation of local actors.

Conflict Sensitivity – Strategic Level

The Peace & Security Hub offers bespoke capacity-building initiatives that help integrate conflict-sensitive approaches at the UNCT level.

Conflict-sensitive approaches and programming should aim to proactively mitigate the negative impacts of programming, in line with the principle of "Do No Harm." Such approaches can go further in creating positive impacts and should be implemented at both the programming level as well as organizational and strategic levels.

The UNSSC provides tailored in-country workshops for UN Country Teams to reflect upon their practices for applying conflict sensitivity in their work. This ensures that key concepts of Conflict Sensitivity as well as the relevant procedures and feedback mechanisms are applied to specific country contexts. These concepts are aligned with the Good Practice Note on Conflict Sensitivity and Peacebuilding, which articulates the requirement for conflict-sensitive approaches throughout the UN system.

Conflict Sensitivity Training of Trainer (ToT)

The main goal of the Training of Trainers model is to prepare instructors to facilitate in-person workshops on Conflict Sensitivity. Selected participants will gain new skills and be exposed to fresh approaches as well as learning helpful principles of adult learning. This enables them to present information effectively, respond to participant questions and lead activities that reinforce learning. An additional goal is to provide a harmonized approach to Conflict Sensitivity workshops for UN and civil society actors who are engaging with varied organizations and stakeholders.

Climate Adaptation, Disaster Risk Management and Climate Sensitive Programming

Climate change is a significant global threat to peace and security. While no direct causal link between climate changes and conflicts exists, growing evidence suggests that climate-related risks can worsen conflict dynamics. Converging with other shocks and pressures it can threaten the stability of states and societies. Its impacts can inhibit the search for peace by undermining human security and increasing other drivers of conflict and fragility. Risks of instability will increase if institutions and governments are unable to absorb or manage climate-related stresses. This is why it is essential that interventions for peace and security are based on comprehensive analyses of climate-related security risks and why it's important that peace and security practitioners adopt integrated frameworks. To support UN capacity building efforts UNSSC works with partners to articulate climate risk adaptation and disaster risk management guidelines.

UNESCO Freedom of Expression and Safety of Journalists Workshops

This workshop is geared towards UN personnel operating in three regions where risks to journalists are highest. Workshops will be delivered in those regions, and will be supported by counterparts and focal-points from UNESCO.

Integrated Analysis and Data Analytics in Conflicts (Integration Pathway)

The aim of these courses is to advance the integration of the UN system by combining analytical methodologies, webinars, practical simulations, peer-to-peer exchanges and relevant tutored support.

This contributes to overcoming common behavioral barriers to integration and breaks silos by fostering an inclusive conversation on UN integration. This course is an opportunity to share best practices and practical strategies that will help participants draft compelling joint pieces of analysis and strategic plans. Through six successful editions over nearly two years, this course has contributed to shifting thinking throughout the UN system by encouraging “trilingualism” across the UN’s three pillars.

As recent UN reforms have renewed the impetus for integration, this course makes available effective techniques on how to translate policies into action that maximize our collective impact, support integrated decision making and sustain peace through analysis while making the best use of data analytics techniques.

Safe and Secure Approaches in Field Environments (SSAFE) for Surge Deployment

This tailored three-day course responds to the demand from the UN system and its partners to train staff who will be deployed at short notice to volatile areas of the world and require comprehensive safety and security training.

Corporate Subscription to the Extended E-Certificate in Leadership and Management

Join other UN agencies and take this opportunity to set up a corporate subscription to the Extended E-Certificate in Leadership and Management, providing all personnel in your organization with unlimited annual access to all 50+ modules included in the programme (eCLM) and more. The programme is delivered through UNSSC's Blue Line e-learning platform.

UN Sustainable Development Mastermind Group

This three-month programme is an effective format for leaders addressing complex, multidimensional challenges around the pathways of sustainable development. The group is optimized by limiting its size to between six and eight leaders that meet regularly with an opportunity for rotating leadership. Group members learn from the collective experience of global leaders from various sectors. Together with a highly experienced mastermind facilitator, participants work on self-defined executive leadership challenges related to Sustainable Development while simultaneously supporting other group members.

UNSSC learning offerings can be designed into tailored learning offerings that meet the learning needs of your team or organization. We will work with you to create programmes aligned with your strategic goals to drive results.

06 Services

360-Degree Assessment and Executive Coaching

This UNSSC-designed 360-degree Assessment is coupled with two coaching sessions (one 90 minutes long session, and one 60 minutes long session) to debrief. Executive Coaching

In addition to Executive Coaching for professionals and directors, ad hoc coaching can be offered upon request for more than five sessions per person. This offer does not include an assessment. This service is offered ad hoc and upon request of the client for ten participants or more.

Advisory Services

The Knowledge Centre for Leadership and Management offers advisory services in change management and organizational development, mentoring and coaching services as well as innovation assessments and management tools. Our strategic partnerships ensure that UN entities and partners have the resources and services they need to co-create, shape the future of their work and deploy effective learning environments that strengthen their internal capabilities.

UN Leadership Culture Assessment Tool

To ensure the UN is operationalizing the UN System Leadership Framework, UNSSC is offering an assessment tool to measure how well UN entities and individual teams are fulfilling its requirements. A team of leadership development and change management experts from UNSSC and McKinsey & Company work with clients to develop a road map to address the areas for improvement identified in the assessment.
