

UN Catalytic Support to South-South & Triangular Cooperation in Implementing the Agenda 2030

UNSSC Knowledge Centre for Sustainable Development

29 November - 01 December, Bonn (GERMANY)

For info: sustainable-development@unssc.org

Course Description

Considering the growing relevance of South-South and Triangular Cooperation (SS & TC) within the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, the UNSSC Knowledge Centre for Sustainable Development, in close cooperation with the UN Office for South-South Cooperation, offers this new course. The course explores the catalytic role of the UN in helping to further promote the SS & TC agendas of its Member States and development partners as a whole.

The course builds a common understanding of the theory and practice of SS & TC as a means of development cooperation and equips participants with the key principles, tools and methods needed to apprehend the challenges and opportunities as well as to better understand the roles of different actors involved. Through interactive and participatory sessions, combined with inputs from subject matter experts, participants will share practices and explore ways to mobilize relevant partnerships.

Course Objectives

At the end of the course, participants will:

- Understand the foundations and the modalities of the SS & TC approach in the context of the Agenda 2030;
- Be familiar with the most recent tools and methods in the area of SS & TC;
- Be able to effectively apply SS & TC in advancing the national development priorities and implementation of the 2030 Agenda in their respective host countries.

Fee: USD 1,500

Language: English

Target audience:

UN staff and non-UN staff, incl. government and institutional focal points on South-South and Triangular Cooperation and development practitioners.

Registration:

Online until 22 November 2016
please click HERE to register.

